

“Acrylics A – Z” Demonstration with Adria Arch Tuesday, September 12, 2017, Endicott Estate 6:45 p.m. for socializing

First Meeting of the Season

Please join us for the first demonstration of the season. Adria Arch will demonstrate a variety of ways to use acrylics and acrylic mediums as tips for any type of painter or art appreciator.

Adria is certified Working Artist for Golden paints and products and she holds an MFA from Massachusetts College of Art and Design and BFA from Carnegie-Mellon University.

Her work has been exhibited widely in galleries and museums including the Danforth Museum and her work is included in public and private collections such as the Boston Public Library and the DeCordova Sculpture Park and Museum.

Adria creates nonrepresentational paintings, expressing her kinesthetic experience of the world. Working in an intuitive tradition, she often starts with doodles or brings the element of chance into the creative process at the very beginning with a liquid spill or pooling of paint. Color choice is of vital importance to her, and she finds herself frequently inspired by combinations that “almost harmonize” and evoke memories of her childhood.

According to Adria, “I am always on the lookout for surprising shapes and colors, and prefer to begin with a spontaneous action. For example, many of my pieces start off with a poured pooling of acrylic paint that dries in a shape I could never predict.”

Plein Air Outing: Boston Public Garden

In our collaborations with other local art association, several Dedham Art Association members joined Nancy Walton of the Needham Art Association for a sunny time painting on Boston Common at the Public Garden. Pictured is Nan Richmond, our Membership Chair, working on an oil painting near the lagoon. Member Keith McClelland and Naomi Wilsey also participated.
